The Laboratory Primate

laboratory primate newsletter - brown university - the laboratory primate newsletter provides a central source of information about nonhuman primates and re-lated matters to scientists who use these animals in their research and those whose work supports such research. the newsletter (1) provides information on care and breeding of nonhuman primates for laboratory research, (2) dis- training laboratory primates - benefits and techniques - in recent years, laboratory nonhuman primate care has un-dergone some refinement by the use of systematic training and behaviour management approaches. many daily interactions with captive animals involve learning and therefore have a training component: the care-taker pushes a cart containing food into the primate room. research protocol at the laboratory of primate morphology ... - the laboratory of primate morphology is an in-campus facility administered by the caribbean primate research center (cprc) of the university of puerto rico-medical science campus (upr). the facility is supported by the office of research infrastructure programs (orip), a component of the national institutes of health (nih). any training laboratory-housed non-human primates, part 2 ... - procedures involving laboratory-housed non-human primates and to enhance primate care and wellbeing. however, there is a need and demand for greater access to resources designed to help laboratory personnel develop and implement appropriate training programmes. this paper includes a tabulated literature non-human primate (nhp) materials for laboratory use only - non-human primate (nhp) materials for laboratory use only . last updated: january 23, 2017 . this protocol is intended to cover non-human primate (nhp) materials (i.e. organs, parts or tissues, including blood) being exported to korea for laboratory (including research) use only. social housing of laboratory animals - enrichment record - 1 produced by awic for the symposium on social housing of laboratory animals, bethesda, md, august 22-23, 2013 bergman, thore jd m.j. sheehan (2013). social knowledge and signals in primates . primate - university of wisconsin-madison - primate research. this contract and the inadequate facilities available to dr. harlow, led to the deci-sion to remodel the coyne court building into a primate laboratory. this remodelling, planned by harlow and building supervisor albert gallistel, cost $93,000. the lab was not ready until may of self-injurious biting in laboratory animals: a discussion ... - self-injurious biting in laboratory animals: a discussion laboratory primate newsletter, 43 (2), 11-13 this discussion took place on the laboratory animal refinement & enrichment forum [laref] e-mail list in january, 2004. the participants were kate baker, tulane nprc, covington, louisiana; sonja the psychological well-being of nonhuman primates ... - thomas m. butler , department of laboratory animal medicine, southwest foundation for biomedical research, san antonio, texas judy l. cameron , department of psychiatry, university of pittsburgh, pitts-burgh, pennsylvania christopher l. coe , department of psychology, wisconsin regional primate hands on human evolution: a laboratory based approach - station 1: cranial capacity in the genus homo at this station, the following casts are present: h. habilis, h. erectus, h. neanderthalensis and h. sapiens (your species name)l of these species are within the genus homo, which is the same genus we are part of. macaques in the laboratory: longtailed and rhesus informa ... - 1tulane national primate research center, tulane university 2washington national primate research center, university of washington pair housing for caged macaques in the laboratory generally allows unrestricted tactile contact but, less commonly, may involve limited contact via grooming-contact bars or perforated panels. preparing new world monkeys for laboratory research - callicebus moloch) are a somewhat less common laboratory primate than squirrel monkeys, owl monkeys, or callitrich-ids. titi monkeys are small (~ 1 kg) new world primates. similar to owl monkeys, titi monkeys form small family groups that are centered around a male-female pair. off-spring of both sexes remain with the parents until adulthood. improving animal welfare and data accuracy in primate ... - the primate enrichment forum (pef) and the laboratory animal refinement and enrichment forum (laref) were available to researchers to share information pertaining to refining husbandry and data-collection procedures. the principle investigator (pi) of my laboratory did not have time to be on these non-human primate material lab work - penn policy for laboratory work with non-human primate materials revised 9.30.2015 page 2 iii. personal protective equipment (ppe) the following ppe is required to be worn when manipulating any nhp source material:
